

Civil Society Institute Talk

Title:

Every 18 Years: Truth, Justice and the American Way.

Speaker:

Phil Anderson

Director,

Economic Indicator Services, Melbourne, Australia

Brief intro:

This presentation will demonstrate how the real estate cycle (in reality, a land price cycle) is limiting America's ability to find justice and real freedom for its people. The speaker will do this with the help of an examination of 300 years of American history, ending with some forecasts for the American economy for the next five years, and a brief discussion on how to have a very good idea of how the US economy will unfold in the next five years, using the study of history.

Along the way, the talk will explore the structure of banking, of government granted licenses and privileges, and of land value.

The talk is especially suitable for anyone interested in liberty, justice and freedom, and economists and market investors interested to learn a little about economic forecasting.
